

COURSE
Ancient Greek I
ACADEMIC YEAR	SEMESTER
2021-2022	Fall
TEACHING HOURS
60 academic hours (1 ac. h. = 45 min.)
INSTRUCTOR
Tatiana Marvina
PREREQUISITES
None
OBJECTIVE
Introduction to Ancient Greek: over the course of Greek I and II, students will be given a deep understanding of some basic morphology of Greek and 1000 words, with the goal of being able to hold a basic conversation in Koine Greek as well as to read and understand very simple narrative texts without translating. This is the first part of the two-levels course
METHODOLOGY
Polis Method
MODE OF ASSESSMENT
There will be at least 4 exams, written or oral. The grade is an average of all exams, the final being given particular weight. Class participation (in-class performance, written and oral assignments and other "soft" aspects) can be taken into account as well. The final grade is to be formulated in %.
PROGRAM

Alphabet, Pronunciation, Accentuation, Diphthongs, Breathing marks, Punctuation, Capital letters
Numbers 1-10
Personal pronouns
Verb εἰμί
Subject and predicate
Definite article
Gender
Interrogative pronouns τί/τίς
Profession and nationality
Parts of speech: noun, adjective, verb, adverb
Aorist active imperative types -(σ)ον, -ε, -θι, -ς
Negation of the imperative and indicative
Aorist active infinitive types -(σ)αι, -εῖν, -ναι, and βούλομαι and δύναμαι sentences
Nominative and accusative cases
Present active imperative
Verbs with one (ζητῶ) and two roots (τρέχω)
Present active infinitive types -ειν, -αν
Aorist active infinitive types -σαι, -αι
Classroom vocabulary
Present active participle
Dative case: personal pronouns
Verbs of motion (ἔξελθε, εἴσελθε)
Genitive case: personal pronouns
Complement of the noun
Cases: all cases of the interrogative and third person personal pronouns
Extensive introduction of the book's characters
Demonstrative pronouns
οὐ/οὐκ rule
Singular genitive case of first and second declension nouns
Further introduction of the book's characters
All cases and genders of the definite article in the singular
Singular dative case of first and second declension noun

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Christophe Rico, Polis. Speaking ancient Greek as a living language, Polis Institute Press, 2015.